

Who we are

The Global Self-Care Federation represents associations and manufacturers in the self-care industry, promoting sustainable and better global health outcomes for all.

We serve as the global voice of the self-care life sciences industry, investing in, innovating, and supplying key self-care management interventions for the diagnosis, prevention and treatment of numerous diseases and conditions.

Our focus is on evidence-based solutions that improve health outcomes and increase healthcare system optimization.

Our vision

GSCF envisions a world where self-care is recognized, embraced, and seamlessly integrated into healthcare systems, enabling individuals to lead healthier, more empowered lives.

Our mission

To champion, promote, and facilitate self care interventions for the diagnosis, prevention and treatment of numerous diseases and conditions, empowering individuals to take an active role in managing their health, whilst increasing healthcare system optimization.

What we do

GSCF has been in official relations with the World Health Organization since 1977 and has a consultative status with the UN Economic and Social Council (ECOSOC). It engages at international level with multilateral organizations, government UN missions, global policymakers, and international healthcare stakeholders to advocate for policies that recognize and support self-care.

-  We represent the self-care industry and contribute to international public health goals through our specialized expertise
-  We communicate the value of responsible evidence-based self-care
-  We foster access to evidence-based self-care interventions by way of regulatory and policy pathways
-  We encourage high standards of quality, safety and efficacy of self-care interventions
-  We enhance the scope and depth of interactions with relevant international healthcare stakeholders

Our strategic objectives

-  Increase understanding of self-care among global stakeholders
-  Drive regulatory optimisation at the global and inter-regional level
-  Integrate self-care into global health policy
